Harmony Week by the Year 4's
in A11, 12 & 13.

Harmony Day 2019

What a fabulous day it was! Assembly, Cultural Costume parade, Suitcase Stories incursion, Harmony classroom rotations and a huge family picnic. This is what makes great memories!

Area 16 and Mrs Jones impressed us all by having the whole class dressed in costumes from different cultures. Congratulations! Mrs Thomas helped her class create some magnificent Harmony artwork. The icy poles were SO popular- thank you Mrs Garside and her team! The Costume Parade was so colourful and joyful.

Mrs Long received a bundle of letters from Mrs Vincent's class all about their impression of Harmony Day. She loved their suggestions!

Dear Harmony Day Committee,
I am writing a letter to you about
Harmony Day.
It was a wonderful day I loved the parade and the rotations.
So I think we should have the picnic at the end of the day so the parents don't have to come to the school twice. They can just eat play and then when the bell rings the parents can bring us home straight away.
Thank you for reading!
Yours sincerely

Dear Harmony Day Committee,
I am writing a letter to you to tell you about my day on Friday.

I was amazed of all the cultural costumes
how many religions we have in this school.
First we had the amazing parade and assembly the whole school sang in assembly.
Then we had a inscursion it was called suitcase stories, a lady was acting out what people went through when they migrated from their home contry it was so fabulous then we went to recess, all the costumes were so colourful. After recess we had rotations so we went to Area 10, there we did graphs on where our generations came from. After that we went to Area 11 we were reading folk tales from different places and all did shared reading. Then we had lunch with my nanna and some of my friends joined my picnic after all that fun we had art my favourite subject, we were decorating a paper foot.

I think next Harmony day we could have a hired waterslide and some inflatable stuff.

You don't have to listen to my suggestion but if you like it, it might be good. Thank you for reading my Harmony Day recount and Thank you for organising this event.

Best Regards,

Dear Harmony Day Commitee,

I am writing a letter to you about how wonderful Harmony Day was last week.

Firstly when we came to school, as soon as it was 8:40am we went to the old undercover area with the other classes to do our Harmony day parade!! I was amazed how people had dressed up, they just looked magnificent!! So after a long and a exciting parade we went to this incursion called "Suitcase Stories" with Area 20, Area 5 and Area 13. It was this amazing girl who acted out stories which were in the past. She acted so well that I thought she was an actor but she isn't. Then we had the rotains I liked Area 10's one because it was were we did about were people's pare -nt's was! I didn't like Area 11's one beacuse it was reading! Next was lunch and that meant it was picnic time, I also had 3 Zooter Dooper Icypoles.

I have a few sugestions for next year like we can have compettions (all sorts) famlies included, we can also have facepaints and waterslides!!!!!!

I seriously thank you for the great day I had because it will be dull and plain if you hadn't put all your effort in this, and about the suggestion -s if you can, may you please write back what you think about my suggestions

RVSP: when your free

Kind Regards

Area 17 are working hard to create engaging narratives using the Plan For Success strategy. Here are some for you to enjoy!

Jaguars

By Leslie Mkala

Have you heard of the ferocious jaguar? Well, we're here to soak you in facts. Jaguars are South America's largest big cat and third largest in the world. Did you know the word jaguar comes from the Native American name "yaguar" which means "he who kills with one leap"? The jaguar's scientific name is Panthera Onca.

Beautiful jaguars have many great features. The jaguar's fur is usually tan-orange with black spots called rosettes because they are shaped like roses. An adult jaguar can weigh between 45 – 113 kg.

Jaguars are found in many habitats. They are normally found near water, and prefer swampland or tropical rainforest. They also just survive in forests, grassland or scrubs. Once jaguars roamed to the USA - Mexico border, but now they are only sighted in Texas and Arizona. Most jaguars are only found near the Amazon Rainforest.

Amazingly, the jaguar's jaw strength is so strong it can PIERCE THROUGH A SKULL AND CRACK A TURTLE SHELL!! Their appetite consists of snakes, rodents, caimans, rats, monkeys, birds, fish and anything they can hunt down. Did you know in some traditions jaguars are believed to be the god of the night?

Would you like to learn about the jaguar's family life? Females have litters of 1-4 cubs which are blind and helpless at birth. The mother protects them fiercely from whatever goes near the cubs including their own father! Jaguars learn to hunt by living with their mum and observing her hunt for at least the first two years.

I hope you enjoyed it... Drip drip drip!! I'll purr off now.

Dognapped

Crash!! Ella jumped out of bed. The window was smashed and paper thrown everywhere. She looked around as a loud motor got louder as a car sped off.

Eventually Ella's mum got up. Ella heard footsteps and screams. She asked, "What's going on?" Ella just stood there. The worried look on mum's face faintly disappeared as Ella stopped searching.

Tears rolled down her cheek, as Ella realized Jeffery was gone. "He might be under all this paper," suggested mum. Ella paused and held up his collar. Dad got up and checked the security cameras. "They stole my car too!" exclaimed dad.

Later on, they got in the minivan and saw their car at the traffic lights. They followed them out of town to an old petrol station. Dad parked the car and drifted off to sleep. Ella got out to look around but there was no one... AHH! Ella was handcuffed and thrown into a small cell.

Two tall figures walked off. A chain fell out of one person's pocket but wasn't noticed. Jeffery ran over and grabbed the key. She kicked the door open and ran out to the minivan to wake her parents. Mum searched for her phone and called triple zero. The figures saw them and sped off with Jeffery.

Soon sirens were heard and the police stopped. Ella's dad talked for a while and told Mum and Ella to get in the van. "We're following the police!" he exclaimed in excitement.

They drove for what felt like hours until all of a sudden, they stopped. A policeman ran over to the car and came back with two men handcuffed. As Jeffery jumped out of the car, Ella dashed out to hug him.

At last the robbers were caught! Dad, Mum, Ella and Jeffery got in the minivan and drove home. Ella screamed, "Where's Jeffery?"

A Dog's Paws

Now here is a story of a young boy who saves his dog. With rain heavily pouring down on the metallic roof, Tom looked out with gloom as he peeped through the window. Although he could have gotten a new dog, he would never forget the face of that puppy. It's been about 3 days since the puppy went missing. He had hope that Brett would still be alive. Before very long Tom decided that he would go out on a journey to find Brett.....

Tom stepped in to the shadowy darkness. He glanced at the shining moon. After a while his body was ready to go on this adventure.... While he was jogging across the dark forest he noticed a twig snapping. "Who is that? Could that be him?" Suddenly a greyish brown hairy dog jumped onto him. Tom jumped but with a sigh he kept walking while the dog followed him. After a while he heard another bark and another and another! So many stray dogs but still no Brett! "Just where could he be?" wailed Tom.

As time went on Tom heard barking coming from a river bank so frantically ran towards it. "I hope it's him!" Before he knew it, it was Brett but to his terror the little hound was drowning. Tom sprang into the river and tried to reach him but with no progress he got hit on the head by a log. The pain was excruciating and he rolled away.

*Tom had no luck but what about the other hounds?
One by one the dogs jumped into the flowing river.
They propelled themselves forward and all huddled around Brett. With mighty effort, they heaved the dog back onto land. "WOW!" Tom was amazed and the gang went back home.*

As Tom scrambled up the stairs he thought of the rest of dogs that saved Brett. "Oh well, I guess we have a spare room!"

Now Bret will never go out in a storm again!

Lost Dog + Huge Camping Park = DISASTER

"Neigh! Neigh!"

"It's okay, we're not leaving you. Dad's getting the horse trailer so we can take you and Charlie," said Ashley as she calmed down her horse. Ashley and her mum and dad were going camping. They were bringing their horses Spirit and Charlie and their two-year-old dog Alfie. "Ashley, have you finished packing your bags?" yelled her mum from the kitchen.

"Almost!" replied Ashley as she put a few more clothes in her bag.

"Finally, I've finished packing, now I can go help dad with the horses," she said to herself as she ran outside. When she put all her bags in the car, she ran up to her dad and found him struggling to get the horse trailer out of the shed. "Need a hand, Dad?" she asked. Together they pulled the horse trailer out of the shed.

An hour later they were on their way with the two horses in the trailer, and Alfie sitting on Ashley's lap. It was a two-hour drive, and when they got there they unpacked and used two very long ropes to tie the horses up to a tree. In no time, Ashley found a huge grass area nearby and was riding Spirit with her mum riding Charlie and Alfie running around off the leash. Meanwhile Dad made lunch.

About ten minutes later they rode back with Alfie following next to them. Ashley made sure she kept an eye on Alfie in case he ran off. When they got back, as Dad was eating one of the hotdogs he made, Ashley screamed "Where's Alfie?"

"I don't know!" exclaimed Mum and Dad with concern on their faces. "We must have left him behind!" yelled Dad as he finished his hotdog. "We have to go find him!" yelled mum. "Grab the horse's quick!" shouted Dad.

They trotted around asking many people if they had seen him and if they could help with the search. Two families said they saw him: one saw him in a bush and the other saw him going across the path. Frantically the family looked everywhere, with Ashley and her mum on one horse and Ashley's dad on the other. "Where could he be?!" wailed Ashley as she held onto her mum.

That was when they saw a small doggie poop on the path. Out of the blue they also saw dog paw prints further ahead on the path. Ashley spotted a bush moving around so she went to have a look, but nothing was there. Then they saw a cute little head sticking out of the bush. It was Alfie!!!
